

OUR Chisholm Trail Heritage Center NEWSLETTER AUGUST 2014

Our Mission: "To celebrate and perpetuate the history, art and culture of the Chisholm Trail, the American Cowboy and the American West."

On the Chisholm Trail Bronze Named 'Top 20'

"On The Chisholm Trail" monument is featured in the August issue of "Oklahoma" magazine, in "20 Objects that Shape Oklahoma." It can be seen at www.okmag.com. History of the monument can be found on our website. It was created by Paul Moore and is the largest bronze sculpture, honoring the cowboys and millions of cattle that traveled the Chisholm Trail.

Photograph is by our own Toni Hopper.

Visit our Facebook page: www.facebook.com/onthechisholmtrail to view photo albums of pictures from this event and many more. Be sure to look for our upcoming events at www.facebook.com/onthechisholmtrail/events.

Girl Scout Day

- 71 Girl Scouts from - Norman, Elgin, Lawton, Healdton, Moore, Ardmore, Fletcher, Norman, Marlow and Duncan.

- "Great job! The activities were the right length to keep the girls engaged. Had a blast!" - Comments from Girl Scout leaders.

- "The Girl Scout badge workshop was a huge success," says Leah Mulkey, Education Coordinator. "In order to earn the DINE badge, the girls had to learn more about the Native Americans in southwest Oklahoma, as well as, Native American artists in this area."

To register for future badge workshops call Leah at (580) 252-6692, or email: leah@onthechisholmtrail.com

Teens and adults took part in our summer camp sessions, which offered everything from drawing to crochet and painting.

Children from one of the area daycare centers listen to educator Cindy Parks discuss the art of Allan Houser, during a summer session.

Special National Day of the Cowboy guests, Shane Slack, Jordan Beartrack and Brettnee Beartrack, pause for a photo opp with the Chisholm Trail Stampede Queen Megan Law, and Sweetheart, Makenzie Andrews. Slack is PRCA Tie Down Roper Champion. He signed autographs for the children in the interactive area. The Beartracks performed traditional powwow dances. More than 800 people attended our National Day of the Cowboy celebration.

Funding from the Oklahoma Arts Council made the event possible. Staff and volunteers stayed busy throughout the day with Allan Houser arts projects, face painting, western-themed games and local children's author, Jami Cole, provided readings of her new book, "What Wolves are Wearing."

Mason Dumas, Graci Lockwood and Breyer Dumas were among nearly 200 people posing for a souvenir photo in our Western Shoot & Snaps Old Tyme Portrait Booth on National Day of the Cowboy. The souvenir photos will be emailed within the week.
